

Giammona Urges Mayors Act on Youthful Crime

A plea for action against juvenile criminals "who return to the scene of their crime before the police even return to the city" was sounded at a meeting of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors in Belmont Friday night.

Wondering how the victims of their crimes can be protected, Giammona claimed far too often that after a young burglar is taken to the Hillcrest Hall after a break-in, he is back on the street before the police return. The problem, at least, Giammona claimed, must be handled at the county level.

In a letter to Giammona, Calder charged, "We can no longer tolerate the present level of crime. Our streets are not safe; our homes, although bolted, barred and padlocked, are not secure; even our lives are imperiled."

responsibility on parents, where it belongs. Councilman Sidney Loran of Pacifica said the judges have nothing to do with juvenile law, and, actually, adults are getting a better break because their cases must be brought before courts within 24 hours after their arrests.

claiming there may not be a sufficient number of probation officers. Anthony suggested that a juvenile court judge and referee be invited to the next mayors' meeting. "Because when we talk of juvenile crimes it becomes an emotional issue."

YOU'RE UNDER ARREST

Burglars in South San Francisco's industrial section are likely to encounter this canine if they have the luck to be caught while the four-legged officer walks his beat. Roy, czar of Carr Helm - better known as "Roy" - has been on the force since 1974.

Roy's a Super-Alarm System in South SF

By JANET PARKER Roy might weigh 90 pounds but he's not a weakling. In fact, you'd have a hard time convincing any prowler that the smallest member of the South San Francisco police force is "a pussycat at heart."

— got sick from the intensive work of being a police dog. Now, Himm said, that dog is a house pet and loves every minute. When it was time to look for a new dog, Himm decided to get a dog that had no previous training. He looked at 25 dogs all over California when he finally found Roy.

5 Vying In Supes Election

By BOB HEMINGWAY Two incumbents face challenges, and three hopefuls are competing for a vacated position in the races for the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors in the June 8 primary election.

A Need for Return to 3 R's Common Belief

Virtually all the candidates for the two seats that will be decided June 8 for the Jefferson High School District Board are campaigning on a belief in the need for a return to the three R's.

lica, is an insurance agent and a former physical education and social science teacher. She never has been married. As a non-parent, she believes that school districts should encourage other non-parents in the community to become involved in school affairs.

Board Chairman William H. Royer, 55, seeking reelection to a second term from the Fourth District, faces a challenge from Mrs. Esther Rascon, 50, of Redwood City, a community worker for the Social Services Division of the County Department of Health and Welfare.

Robinson, of 320 Higate Ave., Daly City, is the assistant principal at Crestmoor High School. He is married to Helen Robinson and they have two sons, ages 18 and 16.

"Students should be prepared to go into the business or education schools with basic skills, do simple math, be able to read and follow directions," she says. She also believes students should not be graduated unless they have the skills to enjoy leisure time — know how to swim, to throw a ball, skip or hop, and pass a posture test.

The First and Fourth District races, with only two candidates each, will be decided in the primary election. However, if none of the candidates in the Fifth District contest receives a majority of the votes cast, the top two vote-getters will face a runoff in the Nov. 9 general election.

Action Expected On Appointments

Jefferson Elementary School District trustees, faced with choosing a new superintendent and making principal assignments, met all day Saturday in executive (closed) session in Daly City.

assembly lines — instead of learning everything inside the schoolroom.

Asked about his attitude toward busing, he said, "I don't have any big hangups on busing, although I do believe that if all things are equal, I sure don't think kids ought to be bused. I think a lot of times it's more of a parent hangup than a child hangup."

A Terra Nova High School graduate in 1971, Donald Branson says he would like to see the quality of the schools improved. He at least in part blames the school for graduating him without his being able to spell.

"I had to learn how to spell in college," he said. "I graduated without everything I needed. I wasn't taught like I should have been. I didn't get my money's worth, as the saying goes."

A garage maintenance worker in San Francisco, he is single and lives at 15A Shelter Cove Road, Pacifica. He has never sought elective office before, either in school or since, but he says he has always been interested in the problems of the district.

Asked about specific problems with the district, Branson said he has no specific criticisms or ideas for changing things. However, he said since he is not running against a member of the present school board, he must be careful about what he says he must be careful about what he says "because you have to work with them."

Like the other candidates, Branson would like to see a return to basics. He believes in affirmative action but says it is "being taken care of very, very slowly in the district" and that "declining enrollment makes it very hard to implement."

Although he is philosophically opposed to busing, he believes since it is the law, it should be enforced.

The other candidate for the shorter term, Frank Damon, could not be reached for comment.

In the election for the seat that expires in 1979, there are four candidates, Esther Talavera, James Roman, Conra Guevara and Marcelino Enriquez.

Mrs. Talavera is an advocate community worker at the Daly City Community Service Center. She is married, lives at 205 Woodrow St., Daly City, and has six children between the ages of 2 and 9.

She never has run for an elective office before but believes that because she is familiar with the problems of the community, she would be a valuable board member.

Her area of the city, Old Daly City, is not represented on the board, and she would like to remedy the situation.

She believes schools in the district should be more racially integrated but not necessarily through busing.

One thing she would like to see tried on an experimental basis is busing, for example, whole classes at Ocean and Terra Nova High Schools to those in Daly City for a day or two.

"That's a little radical, but I think the system could use some experiment," she said. "It would be sort of like an exchange student program."

She said she is firm in her belief that schools should be the common meeting ground of the community — parents, teachers and administrators.

An engineer at Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., Roman and his wife Ruth and four children between the ages of 2 and 13 live at 807 Edgemoor St., Pacifica.

A teacher for three years at Oceana High School in math and physics and a graduate of Westmoor High School, he says he decided to run because he wanted to return some of the things the district gave him.

He said he would like the hiring more closely reflect the racial makeup of the student body. He said too often Caucasians get the good jobs and minorities "seem to be congregated in the lower jobs."

He would like the district to implement an affirmative action program and actively recruit minorities.

But he said he believes on the whole the district does an excellent job and their parents should be realistic about the economic constraints placed upon it.

Asked about busing, he said he does not see a need for it in the Jefferson School District, but where it is necessary to achieve racial balance, he would favor it.

Guevara, a retired member of the U.S. Air Force, teaches English, math and social studies at Everett Junior High School in San Francisco. He has taught in the City's schools five years.

Guevara and his wife, Nancy, and their five children, age 23 to 16, moved to Daly City six years ago. The family lives at 30 Bismark St.

A native of the Philippines, he never has run for an elective office before.

Because of his experience in the schools and concern for education, he believes he has a better insight into the problems and the "good things that happen at the schools."

He believes special help should be given to students with language or other problems, but on the whole, the schools are doing a good job.

"We need improvements, just continuing the quality education we have from the under achiever all the way up," he said.

"Those who have fallen away from education should be told that it's important," he said. "They need a career education so they will have marketable skills."

He thinks beginning teacher salaries should be brought up but that teachers with tenure get adequate wages.

He favors an affirmative action policy if the standards aren't lowered. "We shouldn't promote anybody just because of race. I think that's a cop-out."

Marcelino Enriquez lives at 3304 San Jose Ave., Daly City, and is a serviceman for PG&E. His wife is Arsenia (Zeny) Enriquez. They came to this area six years ago from the Philippines.

Two Charged Canine With Assault

Two 17-year-olds were charged early Monday by San Bruno police with assault with a deadly weapon and attempted robbery.

A resident of the Shelter Creek Apartment complex, Charles Creacy, 24, alleged he had been accosted in a garage area by three youths who demanded money, according to police.

They threatened him with an 18-inch pipe, Creacy reported.

for the dog, we wouldn't have found them," Himm said.

A house burglary in Daly City (they occasionally are called to other North County cities). Officers checked a three-block radius for the two burglars and found a girl hiding under a car. Long after the officers gave up, Roy found the second burglar — a young man hiding in a garage with a gun in his pocket.

A robbery at Lyle's Restaurant in which Roy immediately apprehended the suspects. He received a stea dinner from the owners in appreciation.

A burglary at a wrecking yard. Officers sealed off the area and searched for more than an hour. When Roy came to work at 6:30 p.m., he found the three burglars hiding in a marshy area in three minutes.

A lapidary burglary. The burglar got in through the roof and as soon as he saw Roy's snarling face, he surrendered.

HIMM SAID THAT in many ways, using a dog is much more trustworthy than depending upon a gun.

"Once the bullet is gone, there's no calling it back," Himm said. "But you can call the dog off." He grabs for whatever is available — a leg, an arm or a piece of clothing.

"These are not killer dogs like people think," he said. "They will bite and hold. Their purpose is to apprehend and detain but it's not to kill."

And sometimes it's better than riding with a fellow officer. There are no arguments about where to stop for coffee and he has both solitude and companionship at the same time.

A burglar is likely to hit the industrial area five or six times before he's apprehended — and he's not likely to strike again if he meets up with Roy.

The police department will add a second dog — Daaijeck, handled by Officer Don Culbertson — in June.

Dogs are dogs and occasionally even Roy proves he can be mischievous, too.

WHEN HIMM HAD the dog only two months, the team was called to the burglary of a cheese factory. With the burglars long gone, the officers wrote up their reports. Himm called for Roy who didn't respond and figured he'd taken off after a rabbit or bird in the nearby field.

Some time later, officers heard suspicious noises in a factory truck parked nearby. There they found Roy — feasting on a giant wheel of cheese.

board will begin their terms at the first meeting of the board in January, 1977.

Asked to state their individual views as to the most important aspects of the job of supervisor, the candidates offered the following replies.

• Fitzgerald — "In any decision I make, I ask, 'Is it good for the people of San Mateo County?' This aspect is interpreting the will of the majority of the people of the county and relating to their desires. I feel their desire is to want to maintain the quality of life, environment and economic base, and that the cost of government and the size of government must be curtailed."

"I have maintained a tight rein on expenditures while backing projects that would maintain our quality of life by orderly growth and providing those necessary county services at the lowest possible tax rate."

"The reduction of crime, and greater protection of citizens is a top priority issue for me."

• Griffith — "We need access of the people to all decisions and no more secret meetings; hearings at times when the people can be heard; and a budget that the people can follow in detail."

"We must eliminate conflicts of interest which now prevail because applicants on important projects like San Bruno Mountain make huge contributions."

"We must appoint a board of assessment appeals that is more responsive to homeowner concerns and willing to equalize assessments between industrial property and the now overburdened homes. We must cut costs of county bureaucracy by instituting cost accounting practices. We must extend low enforcement and park services to all parts of the county."

"A supervisor must inquire thoroughly into staff recommendations, performing individual research as necessary, in order to maintain the policy-initiating role of the board."

• Royer — "Land use planning, and the conflicts involved in protecting the environment and allowing reasonable controlled growth in a way to provide the necessary balance are most important aspects of the job."

"I am concerned about what we are doing to people's property rights. As far as open space is concerned, if it is not for the people's use, we should establish zoning for reasonable development. I feel we can protect open space by good zoning."

"Government is expanding too rapidly and needs to be controlled. During the past three years we have reduced the hiring of new employees to a 2.1 per cent increase, versus a 13 per cent increase for the previous three years."

• Esther Rascon — "The most important aspects of the job are to represent the people in San Mateo County in an honest, direct and sincere manner, to uphold the highest integrity and moral standards."

"I will make myself available, unlike my opponent, to answer the questions the people have and to restore the people's faith in the office of supervisors, to provide a well-researched study of all programs the county operates in order to determine which should be encouraged and which should be cut, and to do the best darn job I can to deserve the confidence of all the people of San Mateo County."

• Carter — "I think being prudent with the taxpayers' dollars is the most important aspect of a supervisor's job. They have not been very prudent, allowing the salaries of the county manager (M. D. Tarshe) and Dr. (George) Pickett (director of the Department of Health and Welfare) to get higher than that of the governor."

"I would be representing the district from which I come. We in the Fifth District haven't had any representation for 12 years."

"Not having been a supervisor, it is hard to pinpoint one thing. I think all are very important."

"I will work for a charter amendment to elect supervisors by district only, not at large, for better police protection on the Coastside, especially at night, for a better and wider Highway 93 from Freeway 280 to the west," Carter said.

• Lyon — "The most important aspect is making sure you have involved the citizens at each level of the governmental process. If you let the citizens know what you've learned and how you feel about things, the likelihood is to make a decision to benefit the people the most."

"It is how well you approach the citizens and how well you listen to the citizens."

"The most important issue right now is how we are going to solve the dilemma of requirements for services to the people, and at the same time pay for them."

"In attempting to deliver on promises when there is not enough to go around, we'll have to decide what our priorities really are."

"I believe that county government reorganization will result in better delivery of county services at lower cost, and that tax reform, not increased tax base, is necessary to lighten the burden of individual taxpayers."

• Stewart — "Taxes, how we arrive at a fair figure, is that most important aspect of the job."

"Assessing practices have to change so they are fair and equitable throughout the county. Tax reform has to come out of Sacramento so that everyone pays his fair share."

"If they shift the tax load, it has to be a program which will respect the needs of the people of our county."

"The inventory tax has to be changed. Big commodities are taxed, then taxed again on March 1. Large stores will lose sales rather than bring in large stocks."

"I think it's time our county government actively participated in a cost-conscious effort to provide more and better service through San Mateo County with the financial resources at hand."

JANE POWELL

Popular Trustee Stricken

Mrs. Jane Powell, popular Jefferson Union-High School District trustee and Daly City Recreation Commission member, was reported in guarded condition Tuesday at Mary's Help Hospital after suffering a heart attack at her home early in the morning.

Mrs. Powell, a recent candidate for the Sixth State Senate seat vacated by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone, has also been active for a number of years in the Foster Parents program in the community.

She has been "mother" to literally hundreds of children.

The 48-year-old Mrs. Powell has served on the JHSD Board for the past seven years. She is married to Richard Powell. The couple has six children.

Helpless Elderly Trio Rescued

Three elderly people lay helpless on the floors of their Belmont and Burlingame homes this holiday weekend, unable to even call for help.

In Burlingame, neighbors of Percy and Josie Elliott, 475 Marin Drive, called police Sunday when a son phoned from out of town saying that he was unable to reach his parents. Police broke into the home and sent the pair to Peninsula hospital, where there are listed as in "fair condition" today.

In Belmont, a neighbor looked into the apartment of Martha Ann Brown, 803 Anita Ave., and saw her lying in a pool of blood. Police broke into the apartment and sent her to Chope Community Hospital. She is reported in "serious condition" today.

Belmont Officer James Speros said Brown had last been seen by her neighbors, on Thursday.

The pool of blood did not come from an injury, Officer Speros said, but from an internal illness that left her paralyzed on the bedroom floor for four days.

The Burlingame couple suffered a similar incident because Mrs. Elliott was bedridden with a broken hip, police said, and her husband was injured in a fall within the home.

Neighbor Robert Durazzo said he had talked with Elliott Thursday, and that the couple was all right then. He said he had tried to contact them since Thursday, but received no response.

When their son phoned from Santa Rosa on Sunday, police were told, Durazzo went across the street to the Elliott home again. After failing to bring anyone to the door, he said, he circled the home and heard a faint screaming.

Officers Robert Boyle and J.L. van Etten broke into the house and found Elliott lying at the foot of some stairs, where he had apparently fallen Thursday.

Mrs. Elliott was found on the floor of her bedroom, Officer Boyle reported.

"It would appear that Mr. Elliott fell down the stairs Thursday and due to his age and injury was knocked unconscious and unable to move."

Airport Hearing May be Cancelled

William J. Dwyer, director of San Francisco International Airport, has asked that a public hearing on a request for a variance on the noise monitoring system around the airport be cancelled.

Dick Dyer, of the California State Department of Aeronautics, said Thursday he had received Dwyer's letter asking for the cancellation three days ago.

Dyer said the airport director was told by his department that noise monitoring stations located around the airport meet current state standards.

"We advised Mr. Dwyer that based on six months of noise monitoring information the indication is that the airport is in compliance with state standards and does not need a variance," Dyer said.

Over the past several months Dyer has inspected and observed tests on the monitoring equipment. He said the airport has a "very expensive series of noise monitoring stations that operate well within state standards."

It was explained by Dale Fern, assistant deputy director of airport planning, that the airport had made an application for a variance in December 1975 to meet the application deadline of January of this year.

At that time, Fern said, the airport had not been able to compile enough noise monitoring data to indicate that the operation of the system complied with the law.

"Since we have now been told that our system does comply with state law, we decided to ask that the (variance) hearing be cancelled," Fern said.

That hearing, scheduled for July 26-29 in either San Francisco or Sacramento, may yet be held, however.

Suzanne Jacobs, an attorney with the State Department of Transportation, said Thursday she is attempting to determine if the hearing can be legally cancelled.

"I do understand that the airport wants to cancel the hearing but, I'm not sure at this point if it can be done," said Ms. Jacobs.

"I'm researching that now and should know by next week."

Meanwhile the City of San Bruno has applied to the Transportation Department to testify at the variance hearing. The cities of Millbrae, Burlingame and South San Francisco also are considering testifying.

Car Rolls, Driver Escapes

Walter R. Miranda, 20, 161 Bepler St., Daly City, escaped serious injury Tuesday when his car rolled over after climbing an embankment on Crystal Springs Road east of Skyline Boulevard, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officer R. Steffens said Miranda, who was taken to Mills Hospital with scalp lacerations and a possible neck injury, told him that he apparently took a curve too wide and drifted off onto the shoulder.

Miranda said he tried to correct his mistake, but lost control, crossed the road and climbed the embankment, his car rolling back on the roadway on its top, according to Steffens.

Makar Gains Five Key Endorsements in Race

Bruce Makar, Republican candidate for George Moscone's seat in the State Senate, has gained the endorsements of five prominent San Francisco and San Mateo Republicans.

Those endorsing Makar in his maiden bid for public office are Congressman Pete McCloskey, Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, San Francisco Supervisor John Barbagelata and John Molinari, and former Republican State Chairman Put Livermore.

In announcing his endorsement of Makar, Supervisor John Barbagelata said, "More than anything else, Bruce Makar represents the people's demand for fiscal responsibility and common sense in government."

Congressman McCloskey, who originally ran in Northern San Mateo County until his Congressional District was reapportioned to the southern end of the county, said, "I am pleased that Bruce is adopting my original formula for victory, get out and push those doorbells."

"It is refreshing to see a Republican return to the old-fashioned style of people politics."

Assemblyman Dixon Arnett stated, "I am looking forward to working with Bruce in the legislature on the problems of San Mateo County."

Learning of the endorsements, Makar said he was pleased.

Film Fest Slated For Pacificans

The Pacifica Library will be holding a film festival for children for the month of June.

The films are suitable for all ages, however preschoolers should be accompanied by older brothers, sisters or a parent.

All films are shown on Fridays at 3:30 p.m. June 10.

The June 4 film will be the "Red Balloon," a 34-minute classic about a young boy and his special balloon. The action is set in Paris. The June 10 special movie will be "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," which is a Disney classic about Captain Nemo's cosmic-powered submarine. This science fiction film stars Kirk Douglas and James Mason.

On June 11 three films lasting about 35 minutes all together will be shown. They are Dr. Seuss' Cartoon, "Green Eggs and Ham," "The Mole and the Lollipop," and the Evel Knievel Film, "Not so Easy."

A 63-minute film of live action based on the Newberry Award-winning children's book of a young boy in New Mexico called "And Now Miguel" will be shown on June 18.

The last film of the month will be shown on June 25 and will be the award winning film, "Our Friend the Atom" produced by Walt Disney.

Jones Talk In Brisbane

Congressional candidate Bob Jones will address a meeting of citizens in Brisbane, City Councilman Art Montenegro announced last week.

"Everyone will have a chance to ask direct questions and get direct answers, and evaluate him on their own," Montenegro said.

The meeting will take place June 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Teen Center at 250 Visitation, and is open to the public.

Jones is the Republican candidate who opposes incumbent Leo Ryan in the November election.

Pacifica Plans A Bike Rodeo

The department is in need of registration volunteers for the summer registration which will be held at Sharp Park School June 3 from 10 a.m. to noon.

Volunteers wishing to work registration should call the recreation Department.

The Department will sponsor a J-Teen Beach Party, June 4, from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Montara

Save the Snails For Suppertime?

By JOHN HORGAN
Times Staff Writer

Each spring, I get the feeling that I ought to learn to know my Rose Man a little better. He's the sort of fellow who would understand my plight.

My garden is far from a collection of earthly delights. Instead, the foliage therein is cannon fodder for an armada of snails.

The place has become a vast smorgasbord for these creatures of the night. They don't much care for the rays of the sun. They are a docile lot. They crawl around feeding on whatever moves them with a kind of bland casualness.

But they bug me. No matter how innocuous they may appear, they are a pain in the Vigar.

The snails eat anything green and the poor plants cannot fight back. They seem to be immune to the seductive scent of the usual brands of poison pellets.

So what's the solution? It's simple, if you care to listen to Dr. George K. York of the University of California at Davis.

According to that worthy, the answer to your snail problem is to eat them.

Dr. York ought to know. He is an expert on snails. He is a food science and technology specialist at Davis' Division of Agricultural Sciences.

He says snails, the bane of my Burlingame backyard, make terrific hors d'oeuvres. "And they are also low in calories and high in protein," he offers.

That's great news. At my wife's next soiree, we'll serve up a gross of these beasts to the unsuspecting neighbors. That will teach them to make sport of my chewed up lilies.

But Dr. York does caution the gourmets out there to avoid the use of snail poison for at least six weeks before you begin to collect the critters for eating purposes.

Dr. York goes further. He recommends that you scoop up baby snails after they are about 10 days old and the size of peas.

Place them in a fine-mesh cage and feed them cornmeal and lettuce until they are mature, about 1 1/2 inches in diameter.

You must remember that the older the snail, the tastier the meat. Mature snails are also easier to shell.

This is all a most welcome piece of information.

I can now increase my protein intake while saving my garden at the same time. When I venture out to prune my roses, I can brandish a knife and fork as well.

Thank you, Dr. York. Please pass the mustard.

The San Mateo Leadership Council has endorsed the candidacy of Harold F. "Bud" Francis in the Southern District Municipal Court race.

The California Teachers Association has endorsed the candidacy of South San Francisco teacher John McGuire in his bid for the Democratic nomination for the Eleventh Congressional District seat held by Rep. Leo J. Ryan.

The Mexican-American Unity Council has endorsed the candidacy of Harold F. "Bud" Francis in his bid for the Southern District Municipal Court bench.

The League of Women Voters of Central San Mateo County has announced support for Proposition 5 on the June ballot.

The league is also supporting Propositions 3, 6, and 14.

Twenty-eight San Mateo County residents have been named to the President Ford Advisory Committee by county cochairmen Aylett Cotton and Bruce T. Mitchell.

Proposed state coastal legislation was labeled "the most extensive state infringement into local government affairs ever contemplated by the legislature" by the County Supervisors Association of California. A proposed "coastal resource management zone," contained in Senate Bill 1579 would extend 16 miles into San Mateo County.

Audrey Ohlson has been named campaign chairwoman of the John Tunney senatorial campaign in this county.

Bruce Makar, GOP candidate for the Sixth Senatorial District seat in June, has announced five new endorsements. They are Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, R-Menlo Park, Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, San Francisco Supervisors John Barbagelata and John Molinari, and former GOP state chairman Pat Livermore.

San Bruno Reviews Preliminary Budget

Major Tax Reform Needed, City Council Says

San Bruno city councilmen reviewed revenue and expenditure figures in the preliminary 1976-77 budget last week and concluded that major tax reform is needed if cities are to continue to provide current levels of service.

In the first of a series of budget study sessions, councilmen and City Manager Gerald Minford expressed frustration that personnel and materials costs are rising much faster than the city's ability to raise revenue.

"I can foresee," commented Councilman Tony Governale, "that we could conceivably reach the maximum tax rate allowed by law within the next two years and at that time we will be unable to raise any more money to operate the city. There's got to be some reconsideration of how revenue is raised."

San Bruno's tax rate currently is set at almost 81 cents per $100 assessed value of property. But Minford has presented a $7.4 million budget for next year that calls for a 15-cent increase in that rate.

And his budget does not include any money for increases in employee salaries. Most of the city's employee groups are asking for a salary boost at least equal to the cost of living.

San Bruno is prohibited by state law from raising its tax rate above $1.30.

"I think there is a potential that the city's tax rate could jump 25 to 30 cents next (fiscal) year — and then possibly the same the following year. This would put us close to the maximum rate," Governale said.

Minford told the council he believes pressure should be put on state legislators to come to grips with local government financial problems.

And besides, the city manager added, "there has to be some re-education of what (services) cities can economically provide the public."

Governale warned the city not to wait for the legislature to pass tax reform laws, adding "I don't think we can afford to wait for the state to solve our problem. Nothing is going to happen unless legislators start getting gutsy."

The councilmen suggested there be some consideration given to altering the city structure, including exploring the possibility of establishing a charter city.

Charter cities have somewhat more flexibility in raising revenue than do general law cities.

San Bruno, like most county cities, is a general law city.

Councilmen John Barnard told his colleagues that "Cities have been living too high on the hog for too long, adding 'the attitude (of frugality) should have been placed on cities years ago."

"No one seems to see that we are going to have to accept less services from government. The government is doing too much already," he said.

Governale replied that San Bruno historically has provided low levels of service compared to other cities. "If we start cutting now we won't be cutting fat, but deep and beyond that."

Barnard adamantly held that "There has to be some re-design of priorities."

In his review of the expenditure budget, Minford pointed out that the city will be spending next year almost 23 per cent more on materials and services than it did last year.

He explained that this is primarily due to a staggering increase of $100,000 in the cost of insurance.

Minford estimated that the increase in revenue next year will be a modest 4.64 per cent.

The city manager told the council San Bruno will receive $80,000 less next year in interest earnings because of a reduction in investment capital and a drop in interest rates.

He also said he is estimating a $9,000 decrease in sales tax revenue, primarily because of the closing of Turner Ford late last year.

The council examined the individual sanitation, engineering, streets and water department budgets and made no reductions.

In discussion of the water budget, Councilman Richard Griffith noted that the city would be collecting a total of $83,000 next year from water users in water franchise fees.

Minford explained that the city is entitled to charge users these fees since it operates its own water department. If a private company provided water service the city would charge that company franchise fees.

The city manager also pointed out that the fees collected through the water department would be in lieu of an increase in the property tax rate. These fees equal about 3 cents on the tax rate.

Officer Leads Capture

A combination of luck and alert thinking on the part of a Daly City policeman last Wednesday brought about the arrest of a man who had been sought since March by San Jose police for attempted murder, kidnap, conspiracy and armed robbery.

Sgt. Ralph Warren was driving along Mission Street around 11 a.m. Wednesday listening to his multiple band scanner when he heard the description being broadcast of a man wanted by San Jose police.

Warren had just jotted down the information when he saw a car matching the police description drive by.

As he followed the suspect north on Mission Street, he began calling in other units to help him intercept the man. Shortly, however, the man apparently saw the police car following him and sped off.

After a chase through heavy traffic that lasted about five minutes, the suspect, Dewitt Williams, 25, of 1571 Underwood Ave., San Francisco, was apprehended near Alemany Boulevard and Seneca Street in San Francisco.

Williams, the second of three persons arrested by San Jose police regarding the attempted murder of a San Francisco woman, was being sought on a $200,000 warrant.

San Jose police said Williams, a woman who was arrested earlier, and a man who is still at large, had been sought since March 19 in an alleged drug-related case.

Police said the three abducted Janet Reed, 25, of San Francisco who they believed had been responsible in the apparent drug overdose death of one of their friends.

They allegedly drove the woman to Alum Rock Park in San Jose, marched her down into a creek bed area off the roadway and shot her in the back of the head, leaving her for dead.

The woman survived, however, and crawled back onto the road, where she was found by a park employee. She is now recovering.

A few days after the alleged attempted murder, the man who was thought to have died of a drug overdose, was found wandering around San Francisco, police said.

Music at the Gallery To Feature Recitalist

Music at the Gallery presents a series of three piano recitals by Julian White June 5, 12 and 19.

The series will be held at Periwinkle Art Gallery, 1227 Danmann, Pedro Point, Pacifica at 8 p.m.

White will play music by Schumann, Schubert, Mozart, Bach, Gluck, Scarlatti, Chopin, Barber, Hindemith and Prokofiev.

Julian White has enjoyed a full career as a pianist, composer, teacher and pedagogue.

A resident of Berkeley, he has given recitals in the major cities of the United States and has appeared on radio and television on numerous occasions as both recitalist and lecturer.

He has been soloist with major community symphony orchestras.

Compositions by Julian White have been performed throughout the country and a premiere performance was presented in Carnegie Hall.

Indicative of his successful concert career, White has been named by the San Francisco Chronicle in their annual awards for outstanding recitalists of the year for his performances in 1972 and 1973.

Since his residence in the Bay Area, he has served on the faculty of the San Francisco Conservatory, the University of California, Berkeley, and is currently on the faculty of Mills College in Oakland and Dominican College of San Rafael.

White will be commenting from the keyboard, sharing some of his feelings about the music that he is presenting.

Daly City Garbage Rates Rise

Starting July 1, residents of Daly City will be paying as much as 29 per cent more for garbage collection.

Despite requests for an audit of the Daly City Scavenger Co. by some at the City Council Meeting, the council voted 4-0, with one abstention, to pass the rate increase. Councilman McRobert Stewart was the abstaining councilman.

The increase means residents will pay $3.45 a month for the first can collected and $1.75 for the second, while those outside the city will pay $4.40 for the first can and $2.30 for the second.

All other in-city rates, such as those for apartments and commercial businesses, will go up 27.7 per cent and all other out-of-city rates will go up 29.41 per cent.

The council also voted to permit residents to use plastic garbage cans and heavy duty plastic garbage bags, in addition to increasing the allowance for garden clippings.

Refresher Course for Nurserymen

Local nurserymen will be going back to school for the 28th annual refresher course June 1-3, co-sponsored by the California Association of Nurserymen and Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo. The course this year, "The Green Revolution of '76," will emphasize the need for the efficient use of college graduates in the nursery industry, and running quality retail and wholesale nursery businesses.

In addition, nurserymen will have an opportunity to brush up on insect identification, new plant introductions and equipment. Each year, nurserymen also get a chance to meet with ornamental horticulture students at the annual awards banquet and the famous "Poly-Grove Bar-B-Que."

The program is co-chaired this year by George Matthews, Green Pennant Wholesale Nursery, and Dr. Howard Brown, head of the O.H. Department at Cal Poly. The co-chairmen state that the refresher course is designed to keep nurserymen informed and up-to-date on the latest horticultural ideas and developments. To better serve the gardening public and plan for the changes the green revolution will bring, your nurseryman will be attending the "Green Revolution of '76" refresher course.

Blood Bank Meets Needs

Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank provided 25 pints of blood to help injured high school students from Yuba City who survived the bus crash near Martinez last Friday.

Mrs. Henry Boysen, blood bank administrator, said the blood was rushed to hospitals in Contra Costa County as soon as a call went out for help — a matter of minutes.

Meanwhile, a special blood donor day will be held at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in San Mateo on June 5 from 8 a.m. to noon.

Doctors and nurses will staff the mobile unit to aid donors. Refreshments will be served to donors after they give blood.

More than 2,500 pints of blood are needed by the eight hospitals in this area each month, it is noted.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER

Tony Ramos, second from left, was chosen among these three young people as the recipient of the Debra Burrows memorial music scholarship last week at Serramonte High School. Other contestants are Eric Herzog (far left), Bryan Conklin and Joyce Baghosian. Miss Burrows was killed in an automobile accident recently. The scholarship each year will pay the tuition of a deserving Concert Band member to attend the Mendocino Summer Music Camp.

A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded, in part, by the county of San Mateo.

Airline Losses Told in Bruno

An airlines vice president has told other airline representatives and a group of San Brunos that airline industry profits are not high enough to build new aircraft which will be "more efficient, more economical and more acceptable from an environmental standpoint."

Speaking at a recent San Bruno Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Airport Appreciation Day luncheon, Lawrence O'Neill told of massive airline industry losses in the last several years.

O'Neill, in charge of United Airlines maintenance and administrative services in the western division, hinted at how Civil Aeronautics Board regulations were inhibiting growth in the industry. And he suggested that deregulation was necessary for the airlines to meet the demands of the future.

Last year, O'Neill told the luncheon crowd, the aggregate net loss for the airline industry was $100 million, adding that six of the 11 domestic trunk carriers, including United, failed to make a profit.

He attributed the losses to "dramatic increases" in the cost in maintenance and materials, airport charges, employee wages and benefits and fuel costs.

"And what a disaster fuel costs have been," O'Neill said.

"In years past, aviation fuel was priced on a by-product basis and there were surpluses of this lower grade product. But this has all changed," he said.

Last year, O'Neill said, United's fuel bill was $374 million. He estimated the cost will jump to $490 million by the end of this year.

"This impact is painfully apparent at the bottom line," he said. "United Airlines reported losses in the first quarter of $43 million — by far the largest quarterly loss in its history."

O'Neill quoted from a speech delivered by United Chairman Edward Carlson. "One thing is certain, the airlines cannot go on year after year without the opportunity to earn reasonable sustained profits, and that opportunity has not existed under the type of regulation currently provided by the CAB."

The vice president estimated that the cost of providing new technology aircraft over the next 25 years will be $100 billion.

"I doubt," he said, "that many of us in this room would be willing to invest very heavily in helping meet that demand in the face of the recent earnings history of the carriers."

Wednesday marked San Bruno's 10th annual Airport Appreciation Day, held each year to recognize the importance of the airline industry to the economy of the city.

No Extra Risk Home Canning

Modern tomato varieties present no greater home canning risk than older varieties, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture food scientist.

Some recent reports have suggested that there may be a threat of botulism poisoning from canning some of the new "low-acid" tomato varieties.

Today's tomatoes are similar in acid content to most older varieties, according to Dr. Gerald M. Sapers of USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS). Dr. Sapers said, "Several so-called 'low-acid' tomatoes are actually not low in acid, but high in sugar — which masks the tart, acid flavor of the tomato."

"One myth that people believe," he said, "is that white and yellow fleshed tomatoes are lower in acid than red tomatoes. This misconception isn't based on scientific research."

However, he said, "Tomatoes of any variety that are overripe (too red and too soft) should not be canned whole or used to make any other related product such as juice, soup, paste or sauce."

According to Dr. Sapers, current USDA research indicates that adding lemon juice, vinegar or acetic acid at commonly recommended levels will not substantially increase the acidity of canned tomato products.

The acidity of canned tomatoes can be changed by mold, however, enough so that botulism bacteria can grow, Charles N. Huhtanen, an ARS microbiologist, said.

Moldy canned tomatoes may not always have a rotten odor and the liquid in the jar may not always be cloudy, Huhtanen said. "Don't scrape mold off home canned tomatoes and then eat the rest of the jar. Discard the entire contents of the jar," he said.

Normally, botulism bacteria will not grow in highly acid foods such as canned tomatoes. However, Huhtanen found that certain molds that can grow on the surface of improperly sealed canned tomatoes may eventually reduce the acidity to the point where botulism bacteria can grow.

Dr. Sapers evaluated after 50 tomato varieties in his laboratory at ARS' Eastern Regional Research Center (ERRC), Philadelphia, Pa. None of the tomatoes he evaluated had acidities low enough to permit the growth of the bacterium that causes botulism.

Huhtanen's research may explain cases of botulism poisoning from home canned tomato products which tested highly acid, since the botulism bacteria would grow only directly beneath the mold where the acidity had been reduced. Removing the mold, however, would not make the tomatoes safe to eat, since the toxin can diffuse through the canned product. Only a minute amount of botulism toxin is needed to make a person fatally ill.

Hedges Make Good Screens

Hedges make fine screens to slow down gusty winds, provide privacy, add beauty to the landscape, and control foot traffic. Whether a tall or low hedge, a formal hedge, or loose natural growth, it's easy to properly train the young shrubs and develop a healthy attractive stand.

There are only a few hedge trimming and training rules to remember and they are simple to follow. Number one — don't try to train a hedge into its final form and height the first year. The plants should be allowed to fill out. The tops should be trimmed back to force sidebreaks. This will encourage a dense hedge. Number two — trim the sides of the hedge so that the base of the hedge is wider than the top. This will allow light to reach the bottom of the hedge. If the hedge is trimmed wider at the top than at the base, or perfectly straight up and down, the bottom of the hedge will be shaded out and bare branches will develop.

There are several quick and easy to grow shrubs that create lovely screens and hedges. Japanese privet grows quickly and the shiny green leaves form a dense screen. Wind-hardy escallonia, with its colorful white, pink and red flowers, can be trained into a tall formal hedge or allowed to grow as a shrub. Japanese pittosporum and sweet viburnum are also fine choices for hedges.

Be sure to fertilize hedges at the dosage recommended on the package when new growth appears. Fertilize again later in the summer. Water deeply to encourage good root growth and healthy plants.

Tomatoes are plentiful, so it seems a good time to suggest this combination tomato and vegetable salad.

Before I start the recipe, here's a tip of making tomato peeling easy. Using the dull edge of a knife, rub it over the tomato as though you were peeling it. (What you are doing is loosening the skin) ... then stick the point into the skin and you will find that it peels easily.

Now use this quick-slick way to peel the tomatoes and make this attractive salad.

TOMATO VEGETABLE SALAD

- 1 package frozen mixed vegetables
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- 1/3 cup vinegar
- 1 teaspoon brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon chopped green onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
- Salt and pepper
- Six tomatoes

Cook, but don't overcook, the package of frozen vegetables. Drain.

Combine the third cup each oil and vinegar, one teaspoon brown sugar, one teaspoon chopped green onion, two tablespoons chopped green pepper and salt and pepper. Pour over drained vegetables and chill.

Peel the six tomatoes. Quarter, but don't cut all the way through, as you want the tomatoes to cup the vegetables. Place tomatoes on lettuce leaves and fill the center with vegetables. Serves six.

Another type of salad that adds flavor and color to a meal is a molded salad. This spicy raisin mold is different and quite delicious.

SPICY RAISIN SALAD

- 1 cup raisins
- 1 can pineapple, crushed or tidbits (13 1/2 ozs.)
- 1 package gelatin, lemon flavored, small size
- 1/2 teaspoon whole cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Drain the pineapple and divide the fruit into eight custard cups or individual molds. Add enough water to juice to make two cups liquid; add the one cup raisins and half teaspoon cloves and fourth teaspoon each ginger and cinnamon. Bring to a boil. Skim out the whole cloves and add the lemon gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Pour into molds and chill. Serve topped with sour cream or any fruit salad dressing.

Vote for Robinson Enriquez in JUHSD

Voters in the Jefferson Union High School District, which serves Daly City-Colma, Pacifica and the western regions of San Bruno, will select two members of the Board of Trustees June 8.

The vacancies were created when longtime Trustee Albert Tegha was elected to the City Council in Daly City and Edward Solomon, also a veteran on the school board, moved from the district.

In these days of continued financial stress on all school systems, there is a need for capable, independent and responsible trustees who are dedicated to fiscal responsibility and to equal opportunity education that is comprehensive and of good quality.

We believe that George Robinson, a San Bruno high school educator and administrator, should be elected to the Jefferson Union High School District term to expire March 30, 1977, and Marcelino Enriquez, a former educator in the Philippines, to the trustee position expiring March 31, 1979.

Robinson, with teen-aged children of his own attending a Daly City high school, and as an administrator in a high school, is familiar with essential education needs as well as their fiscal ramifications.

Such balanced and well informed background would be an asset for the JUHSD.

In electing Enriquez, the Jefferson Union High School District will broaden its representation and viewpoint from a person interested not in only a well-balanced education for children, but in the economics of such education as well.

Enriquez was an elementary school teacher and a high school vice-principal in the Philippines, where the fundamental role education is taken very seriously.

Enriquez also believes that the district's educational programs must be evaluated for need and effectiveness and that taxpayers' concerns must be carefully evaluated.

We strongly recommend the election June 8 of George Robinson and Marcelino Enriquez as Jefferson Union High School trustees.

Elect Stewart A Supervisor

San Mateo County voters on June 8 will choose a supervisor from the Fifth District to succeed Mrs. Jean Fassler who has decided not to seek re-election. Mrs. Fassler served with high distinction for 12 years in this position, and we join the many others in our community who have paid tribute to her outstanding and valuable service.

To continue the sensitive and effective representation on the Board of Supervisors from this district we recommend a man of wide experience and knowledge. McRobert L. Stewart. We believe Stewart has a solid grasp of the important issues facing the Board of Supervisors and the ability and desire to serve the best interests of all segments of our community.

Stewart is a past mayor and councilman in Daly City and also served on the Daly City Planning Commission for eight years, including two years as its chairman. He is a former chairman of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors. He is a member of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities and a past chairman of its legislative committee.

He has taken an active role in many civic, charitable and public agencies and is a member of the Airport Land Use Committee, the Regional Planning Committee, the Visitors and Convention Bureau and the Local Agency Formation Commission for San Mateo County. He is Daly City chairman of the GEMCO Scholarship and Charitable Foundation.

Stewart's sensible position in favor of planned and balanced development and efficient, economical government has earned him the backing of many elements in the community who are convinced that his ability and experience make him the best qualified candidate for this position.

The Post recommends the election of McRobert L. Stewart to the Board of Supervisors on June 8.

Re-elect Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald

San Mateo County voters will have an opportunity on June 8 to re-elect to the Board of Supervisors James V. Fitzgerald who has compiled an outstanding record of valuable service to the citizens of the entire county since he was first elected to the board in 1960.

In addition to his vigilant and tireless efforts to introduce and maintain efficiency in governmental operations, Supervisor Fitzgerald has been a strong advocate of intelligent acquisition of open space and park development. The record shows that in the past 15 years he has had a leading role in the county's acquisition of more than 9,000 acres at 12 different park sites.

During his service on the board, Supervisor Fitzgerald has led the successful efforts to develop Sam McDonald Park, the Memorial Park campground, valuable tidal pools on the coastline that are now the Fitzgerald Marine Reserve, Coyote Point Rifle and Pistol Range, and the San Mateo County Fishing Pier.

He has emphasized a balanced approach to commercial and residential development throughout the county and has been a strong advocate of planned development. He has served on a number of regional agencies and is the only county supervisor in the nation to have served on the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Advisory Committee on Clean Water. He also helped organize and sponsor the County Human Relations Commission.

Other projects which Supervisor Fitzgerald instituted or helped to establish include the County Disaster Council, the County Comprehensive Health Planning Council and the water master plan.

Supervisor Fitzgerald has been a consistent advocate of economy and fiscal responsibility in government. He has stressed the importance of coordination — there are 96 different tax agencies and 33 separate school districts in the county — and cooperation to cut costs in government without reducing services. He pointed out earlier this month, for example, that there are 19 separate police communication systems operating in San Mateo County. If these could be cut to five or six, through improved coordination and cooperation, the savings to taxpayers could amount to millions of dollars.

Supervisor Fitzgerald has been a resourceful and dedicated political leader with the best attendance record of all supervisors. The Times strongly recommends that he be re-elected overwhelmingly to the Board of Supervisors on June 8.

Re-elect Royer to Position

William H. Royer, the present chairman of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, was first elected to the board four years ago. He has produced an impressive record of innovative, energetic and valuable service to the county and clearly merits re-election on June 8 for another four-year term.

Supervisor Royer has emphasized the pressing need to control the size of government, a balanced and sound approach to commercial and residential development, selective and intelligent acquisition of open space and development of parks, well-rounded and effective transit system, and provision of the best available health services at the least cost to the taxpayers.

Prior to his distinguished contributions to the Board of Supervisors, Royer's outstanding record of public service included 18 years in the posts of Redwood City mayor, vice mayor, councilman and planning commissioner. He has also had countywide experience as an original member of the Regional Planning Committee, a trustee for the Peninsula Memorial Blood Bank, and as a director of the Citizens Council on Drug Abuses. These are in addition to a substantial list of contributions to other charitable and community organizations.

Supervisor Royer's emphasis on economy and efficiency in government has proved especially timely in the past three years. In that interval, the total number of county employees — including those needed for state-mandated programs — has been held to an increase of only 2.1 per cent compared with an 18 per cent increase in the previous three years. He has favored stringent requirements for the addition of any personnel to the public payroll, including a continuing review of current activities to ascertain where cutbacks can be made.

Indicative of Supervisor Royer's imaginative and practical approach to public service is the fact that he was a founder of the San Mateo County Council of Mayors. In conceiving and helping to establish this council, he demonstrated his capacity and concern for effective coordination among all the cities in this county to improve local government and hold down costs to the taxpayers.

Supervisor Royer estimates that he has devoted 50 to 60 hours per week to county business since he was elected to the Board of Supervisors in 1972. We think it is vitally important to continue his leadership and valuable experience on the board during the next four years, in the interests of all our citizens.

The Times strongly recommends the re-election of Supervisor William H. Royer from the Fourth District on June 8.

Le Pacini

Below is a breakdown of Warriors individual play-offs statistics using the Pacini Method of individual stats based not on a flat per-game basis, but computed in 48-minute increments. Also included, for comparison, is a reprint of the regular season 48-minute stats, as well as team stats for both regular season and playoffs.

PLAYOFFS table with columns: G, Min, FG%, FT%, RE, Asst, Stl, Blk, Avg. Rows include Smith, Barry, Wilkes, C. Johnson, Ray, Dudley, Williams, Dickey, G. Johnson, Davis, Hawkins, Mullins, and TOTALS.

REGULAR SEASON table with columns: G, Min, FG%, FT%, RE, Asst, Stl, Blk, Avg. Rows include Barry, Smith, Wilkes, Williams, C. Johnson, Ray, G. Johnson, Dudley, Dickey, Mullins, Davis, Hawkins, and TOTALS.

INDIVIDUALLY, there is nothing really dramatic which shows up in comparisons, except perhaps Rick Barry's remarkable consistency in the playoffs when compared with his regular season.

Gus Williams obviously wasn't the factor coming off the bench that he had been most of the year. On the other hand, Clifford Ray and George Johnson, combined, had a better playoffs than regular season.

They averaged 17.1 rebounds, 2.8 assists, 1.6 steals and 3.1 blocked shots. In the playoffs they were 14.9 per game in scoring, with 59.4 from the floor and 67.9 from the line.

On the surface, then, there doesn't seem to be much difference in individual play; nothing, as we said, dramatic. But then the Warriors didn't lose big or dramatically, but relatively subtly.

Much of the subtlety appears in the performances of the bench men. Dwight Davis' rebounding was off, for example, as was Derrek Dickey's.

But the Warriors weren't an average team, and in fact had lived by the bench. They should have died by the bench, especially in the seventh Phoenix game, and particularly in the second half, but they didn't.

True, Williams killed them in that fifth game (he never played again after it), but their offense was stagnant in the disastrous third quarter of the last game, and Williams, for all his rookie faults, time and again during the regular season had shown he was capable of starting an offensive bon-fire.

And he apparently was, too, having a hot hand on several occasions in the stretch. Yet, he was hardly given an opportunity in the playoffs.

Now compare team stats of the regular season with the playoffs, and all of the subtleties add up to indeed some dramatic differences.

During the regular season, the Warriors led opponents in every category, including numbers of shots taken from the field and at the line, figures which aren't displayed above. But in the playoffs, opponents, while still not getting up as many shots from the field or the line (they had just one less free throw attempt), had better percentages than the Warriors.

The Warriors dropped in assists, opponents improved, thus led in that category. The Warriors improved in steals and blocked shots, but while opponents dropped in steals they improved tremendously in blocked shots, so led the Warriors in the playoffs in that area.

The Warriors still out-rebounded opponents in the playoffs, but their average dropped by four a game while their opponents' average dropped just 2.1, so the gap was narrowed.

The same happened in scoring. The Warriors improved their average points scored per game, but so did their opponents, and at a better rate. Thus, the Warriors beat opponents by an average of 6.7 points per game during the regular season, but 5.8 during the playoffs.

How could one sum all of this up in two words? Possibly DEFENSE (theirs), DEFENSE (their opponents').

MISCELLANY: Some fans said the Warriors didn't get the breaks (shots bouncing unusually far out off the rims directly to an opponent, etc., etc.), but then teams that lose never seem to. Ask the Giants about that.

Speaking of the Giants, at least this year they don't have to worry about their annual June Swoon. No matter what they do in June, it's gotta be better than what's gone before it.

Now that the Giants' players have gotten rid of Stoneham and Westrum and have fans back in the park, what's their excuse? And you know the A's are in trouble when they pack their top farm club, Tucson, with two Giants' pitching rejects — Tom Bradley and Skip Pitlock.

The Giants are making a big comeback in attendance, but Cincinnati and Atlanta are the two biggest gainers in baseball this far.

The Red Sox and Yankees, in that order, show the largest fan increase in the AL. The Dodgers, believe it or not, are showing the largest loss in attendance in the major leagues.

If you Coastside fans missed it, Pacifica native Bob McClure, touted in the spring as Kansas City's top left handed prospect and tabbed as their ace lefty reliever, was recently farmed to Omaha, K.C.'s top farm club.

Humphrey Hurls Shutout

Colts Beat Cap in Playoff

By STEVE JOHNSON Times Correspondent

El Camino High's Bob Humphrey put on a clutch pitching performance par excellence Thursday.

The senior right-hander stranded 13 runners in the opening central coast section Region 1 playoff game at College of San Mateo, putting the Colts in Saturday's 11 a.m. region final against Mitty at CSM.

That contest will be a matchup of two bullet-throwing aces — Herman Segelke of defending CCS champ El Camino and West Catholic Athletic League MVP Jeff Walsh of Mitty.

Mid-Peninsula League co-champ Capuchino (18-7 overall) had at least one runner on base every inning against Humphrey, but he proved equal to all challenges.

In the top of the first inning, John Leonard's double and a walk to Russ Slotnick gave the Mustangs a one-out threat. Humphrey struck out the next two batters on a total of eight pitches.

In the second, after North Peninsula League representative EC (23-4 overall) had grabbed a 1-0 lead, Humphrey did his most crucial pitching.

Walks to Dennis Haskins and Andy Soss (two of the seven walks Humphrey surrendered) and an infield error loaded the bases for Cap with one out.

Humphrey, faced with the top of the order, stopped the rally with the fourth of his eight strikeouts and a groundout to shortstop Tim McGrew.

The Colts went on to get four runs in the bottom of the frame and take command early.

Humphrey proceeded to leave two men on in each the third, fifth and seventh. "Bob's a different pitcher with men on base," said El Camino coach Lou Zuardo. "He rises to the occasion."

The Colts got their first inning run on a walk to Dan O'Regan, a wild pitch and Segelke's RBI single to left.

El Camino loaded the bases with one out in the second on consecutive singles by Humphrey, Rich Bordin and Paul Lutich. A walk to O'Regan forced in a run, and Dennis Laurel's sacrifice fly plated another. After a walk to Segelke re-loaded the bases, McBrew lined a first-pitch two-run single to center.

Humphrey drew a one-out walk in the third, followed by Bordin's second of three hits and Lutich's third to jam the bases. Humphrey scored on a wild pitch and Segelke later collected his second RBI with a single.

Kris Martinsen lashed a one-out triple for Cap in the fifth, but was cut down shortly from catcher John Canepa to Humphrey trying to score on a pitch that got away in back of the plate.

A DUSTY END

Kris Martinsen of Capuchino is out in a cloud of dust at home plate as El Camino pitcher Bob Humphrey applies tag. Martinsen attempted to score on a Humphrey pitch which got away from catcher Chuck Canepa, but the ball was retrieved in time. Umpire is Jerry Littrell. Action took place Thursday in Region 1 baseball tournament.

Rodeway Inn Fashion Show Very Catching

In addition to a great menu showing, the RODEWAY INN, in South San Francisco, is presenting HELEN'S LINGERIE FASHION SHOW during the luncheon hours Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. The latest in summer fashions are attracting many an eye - from both male and female. HARRY CURUSIS, who, along with MEL CICERO, has the "pink slip" on the BAYHILL LOUNGE, is a very busy man. Between his Toyota auto dealership and his San Bruno restaurant shifts with Mel, Harry is in high gear most of the time. Seaside dining at NICK GUST's three Rockaway Beach restaurants, NICK'S, CAPTAIN CHARLES, and THE MOONRAKER, well rate the scenic 30-minute drive from downtown San Mateo. On your next visit to South Lake Tahoe, make sure BARNEY'S and the SOUTH LAKE NUGGET are two of your stops for musical jackpots and "Entertainment the Nevada way." DARLINE CLARKE is the charming hostess at the NEW SOUTHERN restaurant, in South San Francisco. She started as a waitress 12 years ago, which means she is well acquainted with the many customers who reservation in.

COLOSSAL BARBECUE

DeMarco's 23 Club will have what the Guinness Book of World Records has concluded is "The World's Largest Barbecue" in operation for the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce sponsored Annual Western Days and Barbecue to be held on Sunday, June 6, in Brisbane. Here, John DeMarco is pictured overseeing the 26-hour roast of seven buffaloes on a rotisserie with a 12-foot spit for the 1973 celebration.

Holland Cucumbers Lehr's Greenhouse

MURRAY LEHR thinks of everything. The gourmet salad bar at his LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant, in San Francisco, features "burpless" cucumbers specially imported from Holland for patrons whose stomachs rumble after eating the domestic variety. For pizza at its best, with any variety your heart desires, don't overlook ROMANO'S Italian restaurant, in Rockaway Beach. Mother ENRICKETTA and son ENRICO are masters of their trade. Enjoyed a short chat with JOE GREENBACH at the VILLA HOTEL, the other day, and he said so far, this year has been a record breaker in conventions, banquets and wedding receptions. And there are many listed to come. The Lamb Shish Kabob at MARTINELLI'S STEAK PIT, in Millbrae, is just one of several broiler items on their new dinner menu. Chinese Plate Dinners at the HOUSE OF LIM, in Redwood City, include a procession of courses (soup, chicken chow mein, jumbo fried prawns, fried rice, Won Ton with sweet and sour, Chinese tea and Fortune cookies. (No. 2 includes barbecued spareribs).

Noted Award to Hyatt Union Square

HYATT ON UNION SQUARE, San Francisco, has been awarded a Four Star rating on the 1976 Mobil Travel Guide. This rating is given to an establishment which is outstanding - worth a special trip. This year, in all America, only 79 hotels have received this prestigious prize. VLADIMIR TUPY of Roos/Atkins World Travel Bureau entertained visiting Pan American officials at a recent dinner at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S, in Redwood City. That handsome gent dishing a big New York steak dinner at VINCE'S ITALIAN and SEAFOOD restaurant the other Monday night was LENI VANISI, local amateur boxer who returned from Carson City, Nevada after winning two bouts. This entitles him to compete in the Eastern Olympic Finals. If Leni keeps fighting like he enjoys food, he could be a champion. On sweltering days its nice to know that the elegant PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, in downtown San Francisco, is completely air conditioned for spring-like comfort the year 'round. COFFMAN'S ORIGINAL KING'S TABLE, in Redwood City, back in business. It's "All you can eat." DIMITRIOS FAPOPOULOS, who has worked at the famous Blue Fox in San Francisco, the Diamond Horseshoe and Four Seasons in New York, and was maitre d' for the New York Friars Club, brought his many years of experience to San Mateo almost five years ago when he opened his LE BISTRO ROUGE restaurant on 25th Avenue. Dimitrios, a native of Pireaus, Greece and who speaks five languages (Greek, Turkish, Italian, French and English), features European lunches, Tuesday through Friday, and dinners, Tuesday through Sunday, all moderately priced. Special attention is given to every dining detail, which is why you will always find him on hand. Fresh flowers are placed on each table daily, only fresh vegetables are used - never canned, and the sauces are light, subtle and delicate. In recent years, he added an elegant cocktail lounge and a special banquet facility which accommodates up to 30 persons. Although his many restaurant duties take up much of his waking hours, Dimitrios always seems to find time for his first love - flying. With 4300 hours of flying time and the pilot of his own Twin Bonanza, we'd say Dimitrios Fanopoulos is a busy man.

'Think Tank' Group

By VERA GRAHAM
Scientists are looking for an underlying law governing the "phenomenon" of Extra Sensory Perception (ESP).

They want to establish its practical aspects as a channel of communication. A select group is currently joined in a "Think Tank" at Stanford Research Institute (SRI) in an interdisciplinary probe of parapsychology.

Dr. Harold Puthoff, a noted physicist, recognized worldwide for his research work at SRI in ESP, is directing the project.

In a recent lecture before a parapsychology class at Canada College in Redwood City, he detailed an astonishing series of experiments which deliberately included a number of confirmed skeptics. It indicated that everyone, whether he wants it or not, has ESP to some degree.

Though still a controversial subject, ESP is coming into its own as a recognized fact, though it still causes discomfort among some scientists because it threatens to overthrow some established theories.

It may lead to an explanation through a straightforward application of mathematical equations, involving electro-magnetic waves and a quantum theory hypothesis, according to Dr. Puthoff.

Medical doctors, neurophysiologists, physicists and mathematicians have been called in to examine the result of brain wave patterns and have tested certain subjects found to have ESP abilities which have yet to be explained.

The phenomenon occurs, but the question is how.

Dr. Puthoff is convinced an answer will be found - and not too far in the future.

Serious scientific concern was focused on ESP in England in the mid-1800s. Dr. Puthoff noted in his lecture, when one D. D. Hume appeared on the public scene. He supposedly levitated in and out of windows, made things move around by concentrating on them and did some other extraordinary things.

This, Dr. Puthoff noted, upset the press and scientists to a considerable degree.

It was agreed a stop had to be put to such nonsense. A group decided to get a respected authority, a scientist, and "sic" him on D. D. Hume.

Sir William Crooks, the inventor of the precursor to the television tube, was commissioned to take two years off and examine Hume, putting him through all kinds of rigorous tests.

At the end of two years, Crooks came back and told his colleagues, "I hate to tell you this, but it's all true. He can do these things."

The immediate reaction was one of consternation. All agreed, "Poor Crooks, he's gone crazy. Better get him back in his own line of work," Dr. Puthoff related.

He grinned, "Here's a scientist who takes two years off. Reports what he has observed. His colleagues think he's crazy. He goes on to do brilliant work and is knighted for his efforts."

Until four years ago, Dr. Puthoff said, "I was happily working in lasers and paid no attention to ESP. Then Edgar Mitchell went to the moon and was indiscreet enough to do some ESP experiments. The Russians quickly grabbed the publicity and said they had been training their astronauts in the field all along."

As a result, two journalists toured the Soviet Union. They came back and wrote articles on "Psychic Discoveries Behind the Iron Curtain."

Puthoff commented, "If even 10 per cent of what they recorded is true, it would be described as 'horrifying' in some quarters and 'exciting' in others."

It is reported the Soviets have spent millions in ESP research, using straight scientific labs in their work. Top-notch neurophysiologists and physicists are engaged in intensive exploration of the field.

"Some people here don't like to think we have an 'ESP gap,'" Puthoff added. From an avocational interest, ESP became, for Dr. Puthoff, a subject for research, intensified by the results of experiments done with Ingo Swan, a New York City artist.

Swan contacted SRI and said he could raise the temperature of objects remote from him. Brought to SRI, Swan proved under carefully controlled conditions that he, indeed, could make objects hot or cold.

In other experiments, Swan was able to show he could "look" for and "find" objects in other locations, matching his target in each instance.

Ultimately, Swan showed he could describe something as technical and complex as an SRI magnetometer, a piece of equipment totally unfamiliar to him, yet something with which he was able to interact.

He was able to describe elaborately technical equipment locked in a vault, in a basement several floors below him. Dr. Puthoff reported.

Until he protested, Swan underwent weeks of drawing strange items in locked boxes. He finally balked. "This is a stupid, trivial, boring task. I'm going home."

To keep him interested, researchers asked him about what he had in mind for an experiment. Swan suggested, "I'll close my eyes and describe any place in the world."

Dr. Puthoff recalled, "We said, 'sure' - skeptically." Finally, Swan insisted, noting, "You're missing a good bet."

Then followed some amazing results of experiments in which coordinates of latitude and longitude would be selected at random.

They were read off to Swan, who proceeded to describe mountains, deserts - the topography of various areas throughout the world.

Finally, the researchers got "tricky." Dr. Puthoff reported. They selected a minute island area, and Swan reproduced a map noting the location of outstanding features, and it was almost perfect.

"It was clear to us," noted Puthoff, "this was something nobody would believe."

Other scientists were called in to check the results and make their own experiments. Swan still came through.

Puthoff showed a series of slides of Swan's maps. At one point, Dr. Puthoff said, an ideal opportunity to make some long-range experiments came up. He went to Costa Rica, and "telepathed" back a description of certain scenes. Swan, meanwhile, back at SRI picked up images which he recorded. Many matched.

SRI was subsequently contacted by Pat Price, ex-mayor and former police commissioner of Burbank. He said had been using ESP for years to catch criminals. Puthoff related. Tests with him proved he had an extraordinary ability to "see" at a distance.

This so intrigued SRI scientists that a blue ribbon panel, including the vice president of SRI, was set up to design a series of experiments (in long-distance projection) so foolproof, no one could tamper with them or disprove the results.

A list of 100 "target areas," extending from Redwood City to Marin County, was drawn up and put in a safe to which no one involved with the experiment had the combination.

For the next six months a group would travel from SRI to a spot selected at random from one of several envelopes and view the area in which they were and "send" back descriptions.

Subjects in the lab produced matching results which had a million-to-one odds, Dr. Puthoff reported.

To double-check the validity of such experiments, SRI researchers pulled people in "off-the-street" in effect, those who had no contact with the experiments, and deliberately included a number of confirmed skeptics.

Their results showed that all had an ability - to a larger or lesser degree - to bring in telepathic messages.

Medical profiles were drawn. Brain scanners were used to check brain wave patterns in order to find out if there was anything abnormal about the brains of those who exhibited ESP abilities.

They were very normal. Psychological and medical tests were given, producing the same results.

Skeptics, some of them subjects who showed they had an amazing capacity for ESP, conceded that there is an area of human awareness that needs explanation.

Throughout all the experiments, while researchers were out in the field, subjects had to draw pictures of what appeared in their minds as to where the group was located.

Such experiments were subsequently undertaken by groups in experimental labs throughout the country. One notable example took place at Bell Labs when 500 people participated in ESP experiments with an outstanding number of "hits" on "targets."

Further tests have shown that brain waves do chain when ESP comes into play in those who were used as subjects, Dr. Puthoff noted. The problem, he added, is to bring the awareness of ESP from the subconscious to the conscious mind, to make it register.

The late great physicist Albert Einstein evinced an interest in ESP and voiced the opinion that eventually it could be explained in a scientific formula.

"What's good enough for Einstein, is good enough for me," added Dr. Puthoff.

Scorecard Needed In Drunk Arrests

By DUANE SANDUL
Analysis

The man, intoxicated, was arrested for drunken driving for the second time in six years along Bayshore Freeway in San Mateo. He had no defense. He was convicted.

Under the legal ruling recognized by the Central Municipal Court District, his license was automatically suspended for one year and he spent 48 hours in county jail.

The man's friend, ironically, was arrested for drunken driving for a second time only six miles south — in San Carlos.

He too had no defense. He was convicted.

However, under the legal ruling recognized by the Southern Municipal Court District, the second man was certified to enter an alcoholism treatment program for one year in order to save his driver's licenses. He also spent 48 hours in county jail.

A third motorist was arrested in South San Francisco under the same circumstances. The Northern Municipal Court District has made no clear decision on the growing legal controversy.

That motorist had knowledge of a rarely used legal ploy — he had his case transferred to the Southern District, because Redwood City is the county seat. The law provides that option for persons arrested for a misdemeanor.

That motorist's case is pending. But he knows one thing for certain — he has a shot at certification to an alcoholism program and sivation of his driver's license in Redwood City, whereas he might not in San Mateo or South San Francisco.

San Mateo attorney Dick W. Bennett calls the current legal situation a tragedy which fosters confusion. Bennett and South San Francisco attorney Frank B. Blum Jr. have been the prime movers in attempting to have a state pilot program, called SB 330, declared unconstitutional in its application.

SB 330 is a two-year pilot project in four California counties authorized by legislation. It provides a potential option for persons who are convicted a second time for drunken driving to retain their license if a probation officer certifies they qualify for an alcoholism treatment program. The law calls for mandatory suspension of licenses in non-pilot counties or non-certificated offenders.

Bennett and Blum and 20 attorneys who have associated with Bennett have been challenging the constitutionality of SB 330 on the grounds that its limitation to four counties denies equal protection. They have argued other legal points too.

Last month, Municipal Court Judge Thomas B. Caldwell of the Central District upheld SB 330.

Last week, Southern Municipal Court Judge Thomas McGinn Smith declared it unconstitutional, paving the way for persons properly certified to voluntarily attend the new Alcoholism Center in San Mateo.

Northern Municipal District Court Judge F. Jose de Larios has delayed a ruling in that district pending a District Court of Appeal decision on the controversy.

This week, Blum challenged Judge Caldwell's ruling in Superior Court.

Judge Gerald E. Ragan said that he issued a writ ordering Caldwell to exercise his discretion in determining whether a person Blum wanted certified for treatment would be an appropriate candidate.

Judge Ragan said his ruling finds that SB 330-type of programs can be conducted in all of California's 58 counties.

But it also leaves in the hands of the respective county municipal court judges the discretion of recognizing SB 330 constitutional or unconstitutional.

Attorneys say they are hopeful the District Court of Appeal will render a decision to and the fragmentation.

That court has agreed to "urgently" hear an appeal of a ruling similar to Judge Smith's out of Solano County.

Judge Ragan's decision may also be part of an appeal.

In the meantime, persons arrested a second time for drunken driving in San Mateo County need a scorecard.

Speeding Car Slams Station

A San Francisco man was arrested last Tuesday evening for felony drunk driving and his three passengers were hospitalized after the man's car crashed into a gas station in Pacifica.

The driver, Lesley Atkinson, 40, of 102 Baker St., did not require treatment.

The fire department said Atkinson took the Manor Drive exit off the Coast Highway at a high speed and crashed into the Pacific Manor Shell Station, totaling his own car and a parked pickup truck.

The accident occurred at about 6:30 p.m.

Hospitalized at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City in very serious condition was Sidney Maddox, 35, of 344 Jones St., San Francisco.

The fire department said he and another passenger, Dorothy Ross, 34, of 138 Sixth St., San Francisco, were both catapulted out the windshield and back into the car when it struck the truck parked at the gas station.

The woman had multiple facial cuts, a possible fractured collar bone and suspected spinal injuries.

Carolyn Anglin, 35, of the same address, also had facial cuts.

Coastside Burglars Strike Twice Again

Burglars who have been trucking away thousands of dollars worth of loot from isolated Coastside ranches during the past week hit the ranch of a San Francisco mortician this week and trucked away more than $6,300 worth of shop equipment, he reported to sheriff's deputies last Wednesday.

James L. Taylor, 53, who said he works several days at a time in San Francisco and then returns to his ranch on Lobitos Creek Road, reported to Sheriff's Deputy David R. Vogt that not only was his ranch burglarized, but a neighbor's was as well.

Ranchers reported they have seen a blue flatbed truck in the area during the past few days when the burglaries took place.

Vogt said Taylor's barn and ranchhouse were entered by burglars wearing gloves and using bolt cutters. He said they apparently knew exactly what they wanted.

Reelect Supervisor Fitzgerald

Jim Fitzgerald is a full-time Supervisor with an impressive record in all areas of San Mateo County government.

TAXES AND COST OF GOVERNMENT

One of Jim Fitzgerald's first priorities as a County official is to protect you, his constituents, from the rising costs of government. His efforts have enabled San Mateo County to maintain the lowest tax rate of the nine Bay Area counties.

CONSERVATION

More than 80% of the total San Mateo County park system has been acquired through Jim Fitzgerald's efforts since he has been in office. In recognition of his outstanding conservation record an important stretch of coastline north of Half Moon Bay has been named the James V. Fitzgerald Marine Reserve.

EXPERIENCE

As a former Mayor and with 15 years experience as Supervisor, Jim Fitzgerald has the working knowledge of city, county and regional government so essential to the broad responsibility of the office. Jim Fitzgerald is committed, concerned and experienced in serving your best interests.

Board Raps Housing Changes

Opposition to proposed state regulations which would permit construction of substandard dwellings in rural areas was approved recently by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The action was recommended by County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett.

He said the State Housing and Community Development Commission currently is considering regulations which will permit an exception to existing regulations on dwellings and would permit the construction and use of a dwelling built to the owner's standards in rural areas.

Such a dwelling could be built of used, ungraded or any material selected by the owner, would not have to comply with structural standards and would not be subject to inspection, nor specific sanitation facilities be required, Pickett reported.

The director of health and welfare said many unbuildable sites would be used, present efforts to remove dilapidated dwellings would be hampered, and potentially serious public health problems develop by having occupied shelters without water and untested sanitation facilities.

Landscapes On Exhibit

Albert Krebs, 10-year resident of Pescadero, is having an exhibit of coastal sea and landscapes at Periwinkle Art Gallery, 1227 Danmann Ave., Pedro Point, Pacifica through June 27.

Krebs was raised in Oregon. He studied art in the United States and the Orient.

He taught painting in the Pacific Northwest and spent six years sketching and painting the 21 California missions. Krebs also did a series of paintings of California wineries.

Residents to Appeal SSF Center Approval

Many South San Francisco residents lost the first round in a battle to prevent a shopping center from being developed in their neighborhood.

However, the most outspoken critics of the center proposed by Sutter Hill, Ltd., of Palo Alto say they will appeal to the City Council the Planning Commission's recent decision approving the center.

The commission approved the shopping center use permit 6-1, with Commissioner Roberta Teglia dissenting.

Also approved were a general plan amendment, environmental impact report and rezoning of the property from unclassified to neighborhood commercial.

The commission's approval — which came at 2 a.m. after an at times raucous public hearing — was the result of three years of hearings and controversy.

The shopping center will house a Payless Drug store and Lucky's supermarket at the southwest corner of Westborough Boulevard and El Camino Real.

Plans for a bank and a fast food restaurant will be handled through separate use permits, the commission decided.

The planning staff had recommended approval of the project along with a long list of restrictive conditions.

But residents who have been fighting the center since it was first proposed in 1974 pleaded with the commission again Tuesday night to reject the Sutter Hill plans.

Their main concerns were the truck traffic they said will be generated through the Southwood neighborhood and the effect of the two major stores on existing businesses in South San Francisco.

Mrs. Helen Hoopes said the Southwood residents were told nothing of a possible shopping center 12 years ago when the Club View Apartments were built adjacent to the site.

"We would have been horrified if we had been told of a proposed commercial site," Mrs. Hoopes said.

Despite the staff report finding otherwise, Mrs. Hoopes said the shopping center will have a significant impact on the residential area.

Such a development, she said, would never get by the residents of cities such as Hillsborough, Burlingame, Atherton and Millbrae.

"Such a thing would never happen to them," she said. "Are we second-class citizens because we are not wealthy? I say no."

Clifford Farber, owner of All Med Drug Store on Chestnut Avenue, cited the potential disastrous effect the center will have on city business as a whole.

While the shopping center is projected to bring in $27,000 a year in revenue for the city, at least as much revenue will be lost by the closure of smaller surrounding stores that have been in the city for many years, Farber claimed.

He presented a petition signed by 99 city merchants protesting the proposed center.

"We do not believe this shopping center will generate new taxable revenue," he said.

A committee of Southwood residents presented a letter citing possible alternative uses for the 6.85 acres. A senior citizens complex was listed as top priority.

The senior center, they said, would be economically feasible through a long-term lease arrangement.

Mike Couch, representing Sutter Hill, said his firm believes the site is an excellent location for a shopping center.

Sutter Hill traffic consultant Jack Greenspan said several ways to alleviate potential traffic problems were considered. Some of those methods, he said, would result in an inconvenience to the residents.

"The community has to make up its mind what penalties it is willing to pay," Greenspan said.

The commission required Sutter Hill to undertake traffic studies to reduce and possibly eliminate shopping center traffic on West Orange Avenue through the residential area.

That report will be studied by the City Council and temporary traffic control measures will be taken.

Possible measures are stop signs, traffic diverters and turning west Orange Avenue into a cul-de-sac just south of the library entrance.

After the trial period, public hearings are to be held and the council is to decide what permanent traffic control measures to adopt.

The commission also required that Sutter Hill pay for any modifications that may be required on the El Camino Real median strip as a result of traffic making left and U-turns into the center.

Throughout the four hours of public hearing, only one person spoke in favor of the project, C. Robbins, past president of California Golf and Country Club, owners of the property.

Mrs. Hoopes said after the commission's decision that the traffic control measures will not make the project any more agreeable to most Southwood residents.

"A shopping center is just the worst possible use," she said.

SSF Considers Trimming 12 Positions

By JANET PARKER

A 1976-77 budget proposal containing a $764,479 deficit was presented to the South San Francisco City Council last week.

As the council requested, it also received a list of alternatives to bring the budget into line. It includes deleting 12 staff positions, resulting in a $69,931 surplus.

It also proposes increasing the city property tax rate to the maximum allowed by city ordinance for a $45,000 gain.

The new tax rate would be $1.018 per $100 of assessed valuation — an increase of $0.018.

In addition, the staff proposed reinstituting public payment for sidewalk repairs, adding $40,000 to the budget, and curb and gutter repairs, adding $55,000.

City Manager Ed Alario said the council will begin its all-day public budget sessions on June 5. El Camino High School theater has been reserved the entire weekend and arrangements are being made to continue those hearings through the week if necessary.

The council has set a June 16 budget adoption date since four of the five councilmen will depart for a three-week vacation to Italy in late June. The fiscal year begins July 1.

The deficit budget proposed by the staff includes deleting the positions of administrative assistant to the director of parks and recreation, administrative assistant to the director of public services, parks and recreation typist clerk, equipment mechanic and five maintenance workers. All those positions are presently vacant.

It also includes eliminating the positions held by Stan Bara, director of administrative services, and Mike Duino, assistant planner. Alario said arrangements may be made for Duino to keep working for the city through the Community Block Grant.

If the council decides to adopt the list of alternatives recommended by staff, it will result in the elimination of 12 more positions — most of them presently filled.

It includes the deletion of assistant personnel officer, $14,000, city clerk typist, $12,700; three firefighters along with other fire personnel adjustments, $62,430; police training officer, $28,600; police stenographer clerk, $15,300; one police officer, $22,600; engineering draftsman, $19,700; maintenance worker in public works, $9,500; principal librarian, $24,800; and a library assistant, $13,410.

It calls for a reduction in the hours to be worked by part-time employees in parks and recreation, saving $42,800, and in the library, saving $4,000. Additional changes proposed in public safety are the elimination of the fire department minimum manning requirement, saving $100,000, and the reduction of police department overtime, saving $35,000.

Other proposed cutbacks are the city's $15,000 contractual agreement with the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and the $3,000 contribution to the city's beauty pageant.

In the same alternative proposal, the Information and Referral Center, summer youth program and bicentennial events would be funded by revenue sharing totaling $60,000.

It includes cancellation of $21,690 in planned maintenance work, including painting City Hall, the main fire station, Grand Avenue library and corporation yard.

Three weeks ago, Alario asked all city department heads to resubmit their budgets with 16 per cent of the proposed expenditures deleted.

Alario said that by juggling the budgets and locating additional revenues, it has not been necessary to make the entire 16 per cent in cuts.

Two factors, he said, were largely responsible for the cutback in South San Francisco services and personnel.

While the city had estimated a 12.5 per cent increase in the assessed valuation of property with the reassessment of commercial and industrial properties this year, the city learned it should expect only a 1.2 per cent increase. It represents a $350,000 shortage in anticipated revenues.

South San Francisco also is experiencing a 14.2 per cent decrease in sales tax revenue this year, amounting to $514,000.

If those two items, Alario said, had lived up to city projections, there would have been no problem in balancing this year's budget.

Alario said that the city, however, is not in the grave financial state originally forecast.

The procedure used this year to formulate the budget resulted in a premature release of information, he said.

The council this year received the individual department budget requests before they were pared down by the city manager. As a result, the city appeared to have a deficit of more than $2 million.

Although quite a few personnel will be released, the deficit has been considerably pared down and the budget eventually will balance.

Alario said the budget procedure has been a valuable lesson for everyone.

"I think the council is going to have to have a little more faith in their staff in the future," Alario said.

Liability Insurance Increased

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has voted to increase the amount of county self-insurance for general liability from $100,000 to $250,000 to hold down the amount of an increase on the insurance premiums it pays for additional coverage.

County Director of Building Construction and General Services Henry P. Tarratt said the county had been self-insuring for $100,000 and paying a $230,000 a year premium for $25 million coverage above the self-insured amount.

To continue that coverage this year, Tarratt said, would result in a premium increase to $360,000.

By increasing the self-insurance to $250,000 and increasing the amount of coverage to $50 million beyond that will cost a total of $292,500, Tarratt said.

Math Field Day Slated In Pacifica

Mathematics is making a comeback in Pacifica.

The Laguna Salada Union School District there is going to hold a Math Field Day June 3 at 9 a.m. at the Pedro Valley School.

Purpose of the day is to give recognition to students who display achievement in mathematics, according to district curriculum consultant Harvey Barnett.

About 100 students from the district are expected to compete in a variety of math events.

Prizes will be awarded for both individual and team achievement, Barnett said.

"This will be a unique event for the San Mateo area," he commented. "Students have had the opportunity to participate in science fairs, physical education competition and art shows, but until now no opportunity to compete as mathematics experts."

Holy Land Tour Ready

A two-week tour of the Holy Land will be conducted through the auspices of Skyline College in San Bruno Aug. 2 to 16. For more information, interested persons can contact Norm Friedberg at the school.

DONATION

A check for $1,000 is presented by William Kilgore of Daly City to Daly City Police Detective Lester D. Bastedo and Mr. Charles M. Turner, President, First National Bank of Daly City. The donation will provide for four scholarships, which will be administered through the Roland Petroschi Memorial Fund, of which Bastedo and Turner are Committee members. Kilgore operates a private and industrial security business.

Alario To Quit Job In SSF

South San Francisco City Manager Ed Alario says he will quit his job if the City Council does not fire him June 2.

He said the current relationship between the City Council and himself is harming the entire city.

"There's no way I could stay around here," Alario said. It would be to the betterment of the city overall if I leave.

It recently was disclosed that Alario — who has been city manager for two years — was told in March to look for a new job because he probably would be fired by June 30, the end of this fiscal year.

The council already has discussed in executive session the possible dismissal of the manager but was unable to secure the necessary three votes.

Only Councilmen Terry Mirri and William Borba have clearly stated their intentions to fire the manager.

Councilman Richard Battaglia has stated his full support for Alario and Councilman Emanuele Damonte and Mayor Leo Padreddi have been undecided.

Hosts for Students

The Youth Exchange Service is looking for host families who will provide room and board for teen-aged students from Europe and Latin America who will be studying in this country for one or two semesters.

Any family interested in participating should contact YES Headquarters, P.O. Box 4020, San Clemente, 92672.

Insanity Plea Set

Padreddi said the vote concerning Alario is scheduled on the council's June 2 agenda.

Padreddi said it will be up to the council to decide if that discussion will occur in public. The council, however, must announce its roll call vote in public session, according to the state's open meeting laws.

Alario is entitled to an $8,000 severance pay if he is fired.

He said he still is seeking employment in other cities. He said he has no intention of staying in South San Francisco even if three councilmen support him.

The split on the council, he said, makes it a difficult working situation for the city manager, the council and the entire city.

"When that occurs it's time for a city manager to seek employment elsewhere," Alario said.

Carl Casperson, charged with murder in the stabbing death of an 87-year-old Pacifica woman March 1, will withdraw his plea of not guilty and face trial on the sole issue of guilty or innocent by reason of legal insanity.

That representation was made by attorney Steven Grier to Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo Thursday following a pre-trial conference. Senior Deputy Dist. Atty. John E. O'Leary is the prosecutor.

The matter will be tried by a judge on June 17. Psychiatrists who have examined Casperson will testify.

Killed was Laura B. Dunnigan, 87, owner of the old "Snug Harbor" motel in Pacifica.

She was stabbed in the heart while asleep, according to authorities.

Take Care of Your Trees

By IVA NEWMAN

not always be satisfactory.

The U.S. Forest Service urges tree owners to protect and care for their trees. They say that people spend much time, effort and money to plant and maintain trees. People are attracted by the scenic and recreational qualities of tree environments. Yet people who love trees the most may unknowingly cause them injury. Some of the major people-caused tree problems are listed as follows. Know these problems and develop prevention and treatment methods to keep your trees healthy.

Trees, like people, are easily disturbed by changes in their surroundings. Construction of buildings and roads is a major cause of tree injury. Symptoms of tree disease may not be immediately visible. Trees are often injured by earth-moving equipment and by changes in ground level. Roots can be injured when heavy equipment passes over them. Ditching along highways and in building projects can also injure trees. Root injury, not trunk injury, during construction is most likely to kill trees. The addition of asphalt, concrete, bricks or more than a few inches of soil around trees will change the amount of water and oxygen available to their roots. Trees with roots so covered have trouble "breathing" and may die within 3 to 5 years. Construction of a well around an existing tree will

Prevent Damage
Prevent damage to trees near construction sites by fencing or otherwise protecting them from earth-moving equipment. If possible, avoid excessive soil or impervious materials within the drip line (entire area under branches) of a tree. Changes in normal drainage patterns will cause water to back up or pool over tree roots. Soil compaction around tree is often caused by people, pets, bicycles and cars in parks and other recreation areas as well as in heavily used areas surrounding public buildings, business centers and multi-unit residential dwellings. Great damage is done when construction workers park their cars and trucks under trees on a building site.

Compact soil cuts off water and oxygen to tree roots. Lawnmowers, snowplows, and other lawn and garden equipment can severely injure trunks, branches and roots of trees. These injuries can be as serious as those caused by heavy equipment. To prevent accidentally injuring young trees with lawnmowers, grass should be kept away from the tree trunks. You may wish to keep the grass pulled or to remove the sod. Don't use chemicals to kill the grass! An attractive way to handle this problem is to make a circle with bricks one foot or more from the trunk of the tree and fill the circle with small rocks. The wheel of the mower can move on the bricks eliminating the hand cutting around the outside edge of the circle.

Fertilizers and pesticides can either help or harm your trees. Even when herbicides (weed killers) are properly applied the chemicals may drift through the air and injure non-target plants. Avoid excessive use of commercial fertilizer-herbicide mixtures near trees. Recently transplanted trees are especially susceptible to herbicide injury. Be careful in your choice of lawn and garden chemicals, and use them only in the precise manner recommended on the label.

People with vacation homes in the mountains or other areas where heavy snowfall in winter is customary, should be careful of de-icing compounds used on highways, driveways and walks as this material contains sodium chloride (table salt) or calcium chloride. These chemicals are toxic to trees. For the good of the trees use a snow shovel.

Wounds

on the exposed part of trunks and roots. These wounds mar the tree's beauty and open its trunk to invasion by a variety of microorganisms. Improperly treated wounds are often followed by decay. Wounds should be treated by removing dead and torn bark tissues and by shaping the wound into a vertical oval. Commercial tree dressings such as orange shellac or those with an asphalt base such as tree seal can be painted over the treated wound. Improper pruning is often followed by disease or decay. Pruning cuts should be made flush to the trunk or connecting branch. Branch stubs permit invasion by decay-producing organisms. Professional tree pruners usually remove a branch from a tree by cutting three or four inches from the trunk connecting branch. The first cut is made halfway through the branch from the top. The second cut is made from the bottom up and about one inch farther out on the branch. This keeps the bark from being torn when the branch falls. The next cut is made flush with the trunk or connecting branch.

Correct planting techniques will help insure the survival of newly planted trees. The first step in good planting is to select a site suitable to the needs of the tree to be planted. Ask your county farm advisor, local arborist, nurseryman or county forester about the needs of the particular variety of tree you plan to plant, as to the amount of sun the tree needs, how much wind it can take without the leaves becoming burned, and the amount of water it will need, or if it is to go in a lawn, the water that it can take. Next dig a really big hole. Have the hole a minimum of twice the size of the root ball in both depth and diameter. A much larger hole would be better. Check the hole for drainage as only swamp-type trees can live with their roots standing in water. Blend the excavated soil with a liberal amount of humus material and fill the hole with enough soil to have the tree stand at the same soil level it was in the can. Check the trunk for the soil line on a balled and burlapped tree. Firm the soil in the bottom of the hole so it won't settle, lowering the planting level. Be sure to score the root ball to cut any encircling roots before placing the tree in the hole. Fill in around the root ball to within 2 or 3 inches of the top, firm it well then water thoroughly. When the water has drained away finish filling the hole until it is level with the surrounding soil area.

Certified Nurseryman—An Industry Pro

Need detailed information to seed a new lawn or select the proper citrus variety for your location? Or do you need some advice on fruit tree pruning and thinning or insect pest control? What's the best way to stake a tree or fertilize your roses? The nurseryman who provides answers to these questions and many, many more is the mark of a professional in the industry — a gardening expert.

Nurserymen throughout the state have their qualifications as professional nurserymen, certified by the California Association of Nurserymen to gain California Certified Nurseryman (CCN) status. The CCN program, now in its sixth year, has certified over 800 nurserymen and nurserywomen.

To be certified by the statewide association, an individual must pass a rigid three-hour examination which tests knowledge and skills relating to the retail nursery business: plant identification, nomenclature, use of plants in the landscape; plant protection chemicals, soils, fertilizers, herbicides and their uses. The candidate for CCN status must also have at least one year's work experience in a C.A.N. member-retail nursery to qualify. There's no "grandfather clause" in the program to automatically certify veteran nurserymen — anyone desiring to become certified must fulfill the requirements.

C.A.N. executive director Jack A. Wick explained: "The certification status assures the public that the individual nurseryman is well qualified to provide professional gardening assistance so the expected results in the home garden will be achieved." The California nursery industry's certification program has drawn the interest of other state nurserymen's associations and industry-related groups in overseas countries, according to Wick. Similar certification programs have now been developed in Pennsylvania, Oregon, Texas, Washington, Iowa and Florida.

The program in California encourages nurserymen to master a broad spectrum of skills including landscaping. Landscape clinics, offered by the association, help nurserymen learn the skills necessary to provide the gardening public's need for practical landscaping ideas and advice. Nurserymen also study a comprehensive training manual to pass the exam. The tests are given twice a year in both Northern and Southern California. October is scheduled for the next test.

Outdoor Program for Everyone

Outdoor exploration is the major theme of the summer program for children and adults presented by the Coyote Point Museum. Classes start June 14 and continue into August.

A series of nature classes for pre-school and kindergarten-age children will take place on Monday mornings from 9:30 to 11 o'clock. July 12 through Aug. 2. The "Let's Explore" field trip classes will range from the woods to the marsh and will also include nature crafts.

A nature day camp for grades 1 and 2, to take place in the "wilds" of the watershed land, is planned for weekday mornings between June 14 and 18. An "Indian Day Camp" for grades 3 to 5 will be offered between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. in the same area on June 21 and 23. The "Indian campers" will have an opportunity to sample native plant foods and make tools from natural materials.

High school students (grade 10 and up) and adults can participate in a summer training program. Training for animal docents, who will also specialize in the animals at the museum, begins on June 22 and continues on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons through July 8. The training for trip leaders (who will go into the county foothills) is slated for June 24, July 1 and 8 and subsequent Tuesday and Thursday afternoons through July 21.

Single "How and Why" sessions cover a wide range of topics and are open to a variety of age levels. Special classes for children in kindergarten through grade 2 include a "Beach Exploration" walk at Coyote Point on July 16 from 10:30 a.m. through noon. Participants will "Meet the Museum Animals" at the museum on Aug. 4 between 1 and 2 p.m.

Walks to special scenic areas or to areas of special biological or geological interest include a morning tidepool trip to the Fitzgerald Marine Reserve on June 16; exploration of the Sand Caves on June 19; a walk in the woods on the Towne property recently acquired by the county on July 10; creek exploration in a redwood area on July 21; and a scenic walk from Lake Pittsburg to Stone Dam in the watershed on Aug. 4. Participants are being urged to bring cameras and can obtain information on reservations, starting times and places from the museum.

Know your "California Vertebrates" is a museum mini-course designed for participants in the third grade and up. The class will meet at the museum on July 13 from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Information on all classes and fees can be obtained through the museum.

The "Unicorn," the Gorgon and the Manticore" is a musical fairytale by the American composer Gian Carlo Menotti will be presented by the Skyline College Choir, dance ensemble, and instrumentalist on two consecutive evenings, June 3 and June 4 at 8 p.m. in the college's studio theater.

There is no admission charge, but due to limited seating capacity, free tickets can be obtained in advance by calling the college or picking up the tickets at the Skyline College box office, 3300 College Drive, San Bruno.

The delightful madrigal fairytale revolves around a strange man who lives in a castle. He did not attend social functions. He parades his life before the townsfolk in the form of a unicorn (his youth), a gorgon (middle age) and a manticore (old age). The townsfolk seeing only the beasts of fantasy, imitate the man; each must have a unicorn, a gorgon, and finally a manticore to achieve social status.

The action of this madrigal fairytale has been choreographed by Parker Rand. The choir, under the direction of Patricia Hennings, narrates the action of the story. They will be accompanied by a chamber ensemble.

Meet Set

A meeting for persons interested in the June 26 election for consumer positions on the Guadalupe Health Center Board of Directors will be held at 7:30 p.m., June 3, at the center, 75 Wellington Ave., Daly City.

Eleven consumer representatives will be elected to the Board of Directors — seven from Daly City and four from surrounding cities.

Landscaping Plan Should Reflect Needs

A well-designed landscape should combine ease of maintenance, good looks, and practicality and it should reflect the needs of the people who live there. Here are a few ideas to help you plan a landscape.

Most homes have a need for three definite use areas outdoors including the approach or public area, the private or outdoor living area and the service area.

The approach or public area includes the front lawn, driveway, sidewalk, and front entrance to the house. The private area may include a patio, play area or flower or vegetable garden. It should be landscaped to fit the recreational and leisure time needs of the family. The service area can be considered the outdoor work space. It may include such things as the clothes line, vegetable garden, compost pile, garage or storage area.

Good landscaping effects can be achieved if plantings are simple and kept in scale with the home. There should be a focal point for each view and a balance maintained in the arrangement of the plant materials. Don't clutter the landscape by planting one specimen of every plant you like. This won't give your eye a place to rest or create a focal point in the landscape. Instead, repeat some plant materials in groupings to tie the landscape together.

Be practical. Plant your private area opposite the living room or the family room exits. Likewise, plan service areas near kitchen or garage doors. Leave a path to garden faucets and provide a space for hose storage. A simple concrete stepping stone easily defines the hose storage area and creates a neat appearance.

High sides on a sandbox topped with boards can provide seating for adults and help keep the sand confined. When the children out-grow the sandbox stage, the sand can be removed and the area can be used as a planter.

Guitar Attack Alleged

A Daly City man has been arrested and charged with assault and battery after he allegedly broke a guitar over the head of a woman friend during an argument.

Police said Leroy Alexander, 41, of 26 Vendome St., Daly City, smashed the instrument down on the head of Margaret Hughes, 39, at the Vendome Street address, causing severe head injuries to the woman.

She was taken to Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco for treatment. It was not clear what sparked the incident.
